

Millions of people

- do not have Scripture in their languages
- speak languages that have never been written down
- have limited opportunity for education

He was a thief who learned from an uncle how to harm others through curses and spells. Rejected by his own people, he came seeking medical assistance from a Lutheran Bible Translators missionary for a festering ulcer on his leg. During his daily visits, the missionary played the Kwanja audio New Testament.

This young man began to change. Over time he healed well, was reconciled to his parents and community, and was baptized. He began sharing the Kwanja Scriptures with others, including his troubled brother, and those who cannot hear God's Word in any other language.

Lutheran Bible Translators is committed to the Scriptures as God's primary means for bringing about life-changing encounters with Jesus Christ. To be effective, the Word of God must be accessible in a language and media that people most readily comprehend.

For over fifty years, Lutheran Bible Translators has been making the Word of God accessible to those who do not yet have it in the language of their hearts. To date, over 40 translations have been completed. But millions of people are still without one word of Scripture in their languages.

We recruit, then train, equip and help support missionaries to serve in language programs overseas. National and local churches in host countries play a vital, ongoing role in this work.

Thousands of individuals provide support to missionaries and to Lutheran Bible Translators through prayer and generous, ongoing financial donations.
